NUMBER 38.

1 KILLED, 4 SHOT IN MONDAY BATTLE

Wheeler Johnson Dead, Three Blakely Wounded, One Seriously, and Schoolboy Bystander Shot in Affray at Country Store.

Wheeler Johnson, 30, is dead and Winston Blakely, 23, is perhaps fatally wounded as the result of a shooting affray Monday afternoon which took place at the country store of Mrs. W. T. Germany, in the Red Hill community, seven miles east of Duck Hill in Montgomery county.

Johnson was shot through the heart and Blakely was shot through the left side, the ball piercing his bowels, and he was shot also through the left arm. Jake and Fred Blakely, brother and cousin of Winston Blakely, were also wounded, the former being shot through the arm and leg and the latter receiving a bullet in the arm.

An emergency operation was performed on Winston Blakely Monday night in Grenada Hospital and he perhaps may recover. The other wounded were also treated there Monday night.

Details of the shooting are meager but it is said to have grown out of a difficulty on the streets of Duck Hill last Saturday between Johnson and the Blakelys. At that time the Duck Hill marshal prevented a physical encounter between the men. The four met in the Germany store Monday when the shooting followed. Dick Latham, school boy, a bystander received a slight wound in the leg from one of the bullets.

Johnson, who lived one mile east of Duck Hill leaves a wife and two children. Blakely is unmarried. He resides in the Red Hill neighborhood. He returned home Christmas from one of the federal prisons, after serving a term for killing a man while in the navy. He was given a pardon for good behavior.

MRS. THOMASON FORMALLY ELECTED CHANCERY CLERK

At the special election held at the various voting precincts of Grenada county last Saturday, Mrs. Jessie Thomason was formally elected chancery clerk to fill out the unexpired term of her late husband, G. D. Thomason, who was elected to a four year term beginning in January, 1928. Mr. Thomason passed away on Jan. 5th, of this year.

Mrs. Thomason was unopposed in her desire for the office, the sentiment over the county being almost universal that she was entitled to the office for the remainder of the term for which her late husband was chosen.

Upon Mr. Thomason's death, Governor Bilbo named her temporary clerk to act until an election could be held. For some months she had been assisting her husband in discharging the duties of the office and during that time she gained an experience that should prove valuable to her during her incumbency. She is measuring up well to the expectations of her friends and is making the county a most efficient chancery clerk.

In the race for constable in beat 1 for the unexpired term of R. M. Wood, resigned, C. W. Thompson walked away from his opponent, W. H. Williams. He secured 203 votes to Mr. Williams' 21, carrying the Tie Plant and Elliott boxes solidly. Mr. Thompson served two terms as city marshal of Grenada and should be admirably equipped for the duties that devolve upon one holding the office of constable.

OBSERVE 50th ANNIVERSARY

On Wednesday night, Jan. 30th, Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Mitchell, of Grenada, had the pleasure of celebrating their fiftieth wedding anniversary at their new home just east of Grenada. They were married at Cedar Bluff, Miss., Jan. 1879, and lived at Eupora until 1888 when they moved to Grenada where they have lived since. Nine children were born to this union, eight boys and one girl, six of whom are living. They are R. W., Joe D., A. P., Mrs. Jake Kettle, Roscoe and Roy. They have all reached maturity and all are residents of Grenada. There are 18 grandchildren and 2 great grandchildren.

Mr. Mitchell has just passed his 83rd birthday and is in good health for a man of his age. Mrs. Mitchell is 71, and she also is enjoying the best of health.

The celebration of this anniversary came at a time that was most appropriate as they were showered with gifts for their new home.

A delicious plate lunch and hot coffee were served to the 80 guests who had gathered to enjoy this happy occasion. Music and interesting conversation were enjoyed until almost twelve o'clock and it was an affair long to be remembered.

The Sentinel joins with friends in wishing for Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell many more years of happiness.

BACKBONE OF PERMANENCY

Of Such Is Mr. T. R. Clanton of This County.

The world has different estimates of success. It may be that some day it will be learned that it is not always the man in the "vanguard of progress" and who is looked upon as a wizard in business and as the "doer of big things" in his community, who is the one who has attained the greatest success and whose work is counted for the most in the final checking up. It may be said that the mushroom always finds its way to the top of the current; the eye watching the waters as they pass on to the sea will see the light things first.

Some men avoid the footlights. They care nothing for the plaudits of men. The glamor of the world does not appeal to their pride or ambition, and as a rule these characters are those who have well grounded ideas of what a citizen should be; they believe in honesty for honesty's sake; they believe in neighborly kindness and in those ideals which make the home their haven; they believe that the home is the place to train children for time and for eternity. And at last, it is men of this kind upon whom the world must rely in its gravest crises. It is upon men of this kind that society must rely when the mad rush for business pulls the house down, and when men begin to rush hither and thither for a helping hand to aid them in weathering the storm which they have been largely instrumental in bringing on. Such a character as herein depicted is found in Mr. T. R. Clanton, chairman of the state tax commission of the Whitfield-Murphree administrations, hence his actions as a member of the state tax commission were to be inquired into by the committee.

It appears that the Attorney General had ample legal authority to prosecute for tax dodging and that there was a special act passed during the first session of the legislature under the administration of Gov. Whitfield fixing that official's fees at 15 per cent on all collections for the state. Just what the house committee is expecting to develop will involve Mr. Inman's official conduct remains to be seen.

It seems that the committee is not satisfied with the published statement of Gen. Knox as will be seen by the resolutions which follow. Just how much, if any politics, is behind the investigation is another matter that remains to be seen. Here follows the resolutions by the house investigating committee:

Committee Seeks To Involve Ex-Official

House Investigating Body, Named to Inquire into Amount of Fees Collected by Attorney General Knox for Back Tax Collections, Seeks to Spread Dragnet for Cecil Inman, Former Chairman Tax Commission. Wants to Know Where He Got Money for Big Bank Accounts. What, If Any, Polities Behind Investigation, Not Yet Revealed.

The Sentinel published two weeks ago a digest of the statement issued by Attorney General Rush Knox relative to the allegations made in the legislature which resulted in the appointment of a house committee to investigate the fees obtained by the Attorney General in making certain collections for taxes not paid. The allegations in the house also involved Mr. Cecil Inman, chairman of the state tax commission during the Whitfield-Murphree administration.

The census committee reported the completion of its work, stating that the complete tabulation of Grenada's population showed the number of residents here to be 4784.

DISCUSS TOURIST ROUTING

The chief topic of discussion at the meeting of the Young Men's Business Club at its meeting Thursday noon was the routing of tourists from Memphis and points further north to Jackson, Miss. and points further south. W. B. Hoffa, a member of the club's advisory board, was present and he told of being handed a route guide by a Memphis garage which showed the best route from Memphis to Jackson to be over Highway 61 through Clarksdale, Greenwood and the delta section. He said that Highway 51, running through Grenada, was listed in a tourist guide issued by one of the big Memphis hotels and that it showed that this highway was part dirt and that traveling on it was not good in bad weather. He called the attention of the hotel people to the error and, after being directed to the automobile association offices, he received assurances that future lists would be corrected to show that Highway 51 was the best and shortest.

A letter from the overall manufacturers desiring to come into Grenada and build a factory was read and referred to a committee for action.

The census committee reported the completion of its work, stating that the complete tabulation of Grenada's population showed the number of residents here to be 4784.

The above from the Sunflower Tocsin of a recent date shows that Ed Dailey is quite himself again despite his recent affliction which caused him the loss of one foot.

Ed Dailey is counted a Grenada County product, having been reared at Torrance, just over the county line. His many friends around Grenada were genuinely distressed when they learned of his accident and manifested when it became known that the accident was not his fault. His noble hearted soul and generous and disinterested nature made him a beloved and popular figure in the community.

He states to this Committee that his wife, Mary, is a woman of great integrity, who is a member of the Baptist church, an honest, just and upright citizen and one who lived at peace with the world and who believed in being neighborly and considerate in all things. To the best of his knowledge, children as well as other relatives and friends, The Sentinel extends sincere sympathy.

It is estimated that the new law will produce $50,000 more revenue than the old one—Greenville Democrat-Times.

PASTOR DESCRIBES JERICHO, DEAD SEA

Rev. R. L. McLeod, Jr. Gives Interesting Account of the Three Jerichos, Explaining Apparent Bible Discrepancy, and Tells of Dead Sea.

Note by Editor.—The following is another of the interesting lectures being delivered by Rev. R. L. McLeod, Jr. on a tour of Bible lands. The next lecture, to be delivered next Sunday evening at the First Presbyterian Church, will appear in this paper next week.

(By R. L. McLeod, Jr.)
The Jericho Plain and the Dead Sea.

One morning about eight-thirty o'clock we started from Jerusalem for another day of interesting travel. When we went to Bethlehem and Hebron we left Jerusalem by the Jaffa gate. This time we make our exit by the Damascus Gate. Within a few feet outside the Gate, the road starts its descent into the valley which lies between Jerusalem and the Mount of Olives. After about a half mile drive we stopped to inspect the Tombs of the Kings, which Tombs are cut into the solid rock, and by passageways similar to those in the Catacombs in Rome, we walked looking upon tombs within tombs. Back to our car and after a few minutes travel we were crossing the Mount of Olives.

Competition has brought all factories to the point of giving the public what it wants in chassis, body lines, color combination, riding ability, power, endurance and performance.

There are few freakish models this year. There are bigger, deeper radiators to take care of higher speed engines. Lines are long, straight and sweeping, color combinations are softer than ever before, the tendency being toward simplicity and beauty rather than the bizarre. Six wheel jobs with wire spokes have been seen more frequently than ever in the new models, observers declare.

Leaders of the Memphis Automobile Dealers Association sponsoring the Memphis exposition, are planning to make it the outstanding show in the South and the booking of spaces for cars, and automotive accessories and equipment bears out the prediction.

There will be no "side shows", all the exhibits to be housed in the north, south and west halls of the Memphis auditorium.

The Ferry Decorating Co., of Cincinnati, has completed surveys for the adornment of the entire building. From the stage the entertainment will be given during afternoon and evening of the week by the Silverton Cord Orchestra and other artists who will do "strolling" acts throughout the building.

Keen interest has been aroused through the Tri-States in the coming show and a big out of town attendance is expected. Hotels already are receiving reservations for the crowds and a lively interest is being shown, not only by dealers but by the general public as well.

PLEASURE AND PROFIT IN BOOKS TO BE TOPIC

To help awaken the minds of young people to the possibilities for pleasure and profit that lie within books, and to emphasize to educators the necessity of school libraries in stimulating in boys and girls a wholesome curiosity about books and a desire to build personal libraries, Mr. Henry L. Cecil of the National Association of Book Publishers Lecture Bureau is speaking throughout the country

THE STATE WILL BREAK FAITH

We see it stated in the daily press that one of the lower courts of the state has ruled that the law exempting certain new business enterprises in the state from taxation for a certain number of years is invalid, and that the decision is being appealed to the supreme court. Of course we are not undertaking to pass on the validity of the statute but Mississippi will be acting in bad faith, now that these concerns have invested their money, if it breaks its promise not to collect state taxes for a period of years.

Speaking for ourselves we have never been taken much with the idea of exempting new enterprises from taxes. Rather have we inclined to the view that the concern which was unwilling to bear its share of the public burdens should not come among us and, furthermore, we have doubted that the tax exemption ever served to locate many new businesses. But if the state made of its own volition a bad bargain, let her stick to it.

IT MAY BE THAT STATE OFFICERS OWE IT.

We see that a move is on foot at Jackson to go into the courts to try to collect income taxes from Mississippi's state officials. It may be that a technical construction of the law will require these officers to pay taxes on their salaries; we do not know about that. If it is law to require payment, why it should be enforced, but these officials are getting puny salaries now, $3300 for a state officer who must undergo the expense of moving to Jackson and bear the additional expense that usually goes with public service. It is not fair to the state and places men sometimes in such an embarrassing position that the weaker character is led into temptation, maybe, to commit a wrong. "Society" and public life make heavy demands on the purses of men in these unsettled days.

LITTLE LESS THAN AMUSING.

It is little less than amusing to see how our two Jackson newspapers, the esteemed Daily News and Clarion-Ledger, approach some of the public questions that confront Mississippi. Their editorial columns show that they are wide apart in their attitude, yet a careful analysis will disclose that their views are not wholly at cross purposes. We wonder, sometimes, if they are not just playing "possum" in order to make Jackson grow (?). What they are setting forth these days on some questions that concern the welfare of the state, and which involve the present Governor and the legislature, might lead some to the conclusion that they are playing "catch 'em comin' and givin'". The Clarion-Ledger appears to know that the lower house of the Mississippi legislature holds the "joker". Your judgment in this respect, Tom, is correct.

COOLIDGE ON EFFECTS ON TAXES

President Coolidge has said "A government which lays taxes on the people not required by urgent necessity and sound public policy, is not a protector of liberty, but an instrument of tyranny." It condemns the citizens to servitude. One of the first signs of the breaking down of free government is the disregard by the taxing power of the right of the people to their property. If with increasing business our revenues increase, such increase should not be absorbed in new ways of spending it. They should be applied to lowering taxes. In that direction lies the public welfare."

PROHIBITION LAWS
FULLY DISCUSSED

(Continued from page 1) might be future customers, to the systematic corruption of local and state governments by organized bribery, the saloon was for everything we were against and against everything we were for. We came to hate it as a monstrous evil, and this attitude, accumulating power within the churches, played no small part in making possible the prohibitory laws. We cannot step up the issue now. For good or ill the church helped to put us where we are and the church must help us either to stay there or to move on.

Moreover, there are some things that ought particularly to be said to a non-partisan audience like this, with conscientious wets and drys, with Republicans and Democrats. Here in New York City we are in one of the wettest areas in the nation. Our large foreign population makes it quite unrepresentative of many other areas of America. Our daily press, naturally and powerfully reflecting the prejudices of the locality, pours into our homes day after day streams of propaganda, most of it tending one way. We are strongly tempted to forget some things we ought to remember, and here in this non-partisan place I beg leave this morning to try to state them.

In the first place, we are continually reminded that the present situation is very unsatisfactory. In any discussion, it is well to have a point of agreement from which to begin. We may well, then, agree on this: the present situation is highly unsatisfactory. Wet or dry, Republican or Democrat, we all, I suspect, will subscribe to that.

Free Drunks To Create Conformists
Do you remember that old liquor traffic? In 1912 the Retail Liquor Dealers' Association met in Ohio. Here is an extract from one of the speeches:

"We must create the standard for liquor in the growing boys. Men who drink . . . will die, and if there is no new appetite created, our counters will be empty as well as our coffers. The open field for the creation of appetite is among the boys. Nickels expended in treats to boys now, will return in dollars to your till after death."

Indeed, it some one wishes to go further, I will go with him. Some of us fought hard for local option and then, by means of it, fought hard against the liquor traffic, with some desirable results. By April 1917, 26 states had voted out the saloon and millions of our people were living in other localities from which they had themselves extricated and still believe in intelligence more than in self-interest.

tion is unsatisfactory—let us not forget the situation which we faced before!

This last summer in Europe I read constantly in the papers distressing reports about the disclosure in Philadelphia: corrupt collusion between bootleggers and the police force, with stipends regularly passing from the law-breakers to the city officials. Distressing, is it not? To hear some people talk about it you would suppose that this wicked bribery of civic officials had now for the first time been launched on us by prohibition. Do you remember that old liquor traffic when there was hardly a town in the United States that was not thoroughly honeycombed with corruption from the organized trade? In Pennsylvania in 1914, as the result of one investigation only, approximately one hundred liquor corporations and associations were indicted for violation of the conspiracy section of the federal criminal code and scarcely any of them bothered to defend the action. They cynically paid the fine.

Here in New York, we are commonly informed that prohibition does not prohibit and that we are in a bad way. I should suppose that obvious, but do you recall the old New York? Some of you should remember back to 1884, the year of the "Boodle" Board of Aldermen—12 saloon-keepers, 4 saloon-controlled politicians, 16 out of 24. That same year, out of 1,002 Democratic and Republican primaries and conventions held in this city, 633 were held in saloons and 96 in places next door to them.

This use of memory to visualize the situation before prohibition should be insisted on. Large numbers of the younger generation never saw this sort of thing, never lived, as some of us have done, in towns like Boston with one saloon license for every 310 inhabitants, where Ten Nights in a Bar Room was no fairy tale but a literal story to whose characters we, from the number of our friends, could append specific names.

This summer I met a youth returning from his first trip to Europe. He never had seen a publicly licensed saloon system in operation. He saw it in Britain—public houses with wire cages in front of them where little children, not allowed by law to be taken inside the public house, were poured and huddled to fight like cats and dogs, while their mothers were inside getting drunk. This young man said to me: "I have never been for prohibition but I am now. If that is what it means to have a publicly licensed saloon system, then this thing we have in the United States, bad as it is, is better than that."

Liquor Trade Was Always Lawless
Now, many youths who have never seen this old regime, and many old folks whose memories are not in good working order, look on prohibition and say, See the bootleggers, hijackers, racketeers, and lawlessness everywhere! Agreed! But the liquor trade in the United States always has been lawless. It always has conspired against any government that licensed it or any laws that were supposed to control it.

It may be that some of you will not take this from me, a minister, as a fair statement of the matter. Will you, then, listen to the liquor trade itself? The National Liquor Dealers' Journal of September 10, 1913, said this:

"To us there is the handwriting on the wall and its interpretation spells doom. The liquor business is to blame. It seems incapable of learning any lesson of advancement or motive but profit. To perpetuate itself it has formed alliances with the slums . . . It deliberately aids the most corrupt political powers . . . There are billions of property involved . . . but when the people decide that the truth is being told about the alcoholic liquor traffic the money value will not count."

We agree, then, that the present situation is not satisfactory, but let us not forget what lies behind.

In the second place, in the endeavor to make prohibition unattractive, caricature has been ingeniously employed. A hideous fanatic with a high hat, a black tie, and a rumped umbrella has become symbolic of prohibition. This killjoy spirit of bigoted Puritanism, we are told, wrote the prohibitory laws. That, however, is an obviously an inadequate presentation of the case. That fanaticism played a part in this reform no one will doubt; every reform has its lunatic fringe. But no one can state the case fairly without noting how large a part was played by forces not fanatical at all, but rather, for example, American business. Some day I propose a session in this publication on the thesis that moral reforms do not commonly succeed until the economic motive gets behind them. That certainly was true of prohibition. That, however, was not the case with the statutes books had not the business motive been concerned. One of the basic facts necessary to understand the prohibition campaign is that American business found it impossible to run modern machines with drink-befuddled brains. I left mid-term.

When Mr. Ford says, for example, that if prohibition is given up he may have to close his factories, most people think it is a joke or, at best, an ingenious piece of oragnaphobia. Personally, I am afraid that Mr. Ford is seriously in earnest and that what he has in mind are certain cold, unemotional statistics of the sort that need be accustomed to deal with.

Here is one of them: that from 1919 to 1926 the per capita production of the workers in the automobile business increased 100 per cent. Here is another: that from 1919 to 1925 the per capita productivity of all the workers in the rubber-tire business increased 139 per cent. All up and down the list the United States Bureau of Labor Statistics reports what it calls "unbelievable" increases in the per capita production of American workmen.

ed. You say the law may have to be altered! Granted! But do not be fooled by the kind of propaganda that is broadcast. It was not fanatics primarily who wrote this law. Very unemotional considerations on the part of millions of both employers and employees entered effectively into the case. As one industrial executive put it: "Maybe some people drink more under prohibition than before there was prohibition—maybe some persons drink now who never drank before prohibition, but there is no maybe about the fact of there being more non-drinking men today than ever before, and in non-drinking persons you find the great economic values."

Let us not exaggerate the part that prohibition played in this. Undoubtedly many other factors entered in. Write down the proportion of benefit due to prohibition to the lowest reasonable figure. No competent judge has ever failed to give the eighteenth amendment a considerable share of the credit. Mr. Herbert Hoover, when Secretary of Commerce, long before his presidential candidacy, on the basis of ascertained facts said: "There is no question that prohibition is making America more productive."

The changing attitude of American business toward the liquor trade makes a fascinating story. Originally a ration of rum was part of the stipulated wages that American employers gave to their employees. In Philadelphia, for example, part of the daily wage was 1½ pints of whiskey served in nine doses. Some of the first strikes in the United States were caused by the refusal of certain employers to continue this rum ration, and when in 1917 Mr. Thatcher Magoun, a ship-builder of Melford, Massachusetts, broke with the old tradition, stood to his guns through a strike and won out against the rum ration, it was regarded as an extraordinary achievement. Well, the century passed. Over thirty years ago the United States Commissioner of Labor investigated 7,205 American businesses employing 1,750,000 men. Three-quarters of them reported they never hired a man without investigating his drinking habits; 700 of them reported that they absolutely forbade any drinking on the part of an employee within working hours or outside of them.

When you seek the driving that brought the American people to prohibition, cease being obsessed with the caricature of a fanatic and remember the multitude of hard-headed American businessmen, both employers and employees. Among the first prohibitionists were the railroads. Long before we had national prohibition, Rule G was in operation on every Class I railroad. Here it is:

"The use of intoxicants by employees while on duty is prohibited; their use, or the frequenting of places where they are sold, is sufficient cause for dismissal."

One could go through a long list of these prohibitory laws, written not by fanatics, but by business men. Here is one, for example, from a leading American industry. "Any employee found using intoxicating liquor—either during or after working hours—is warned that it will not be tolerated and urged to discontinue its use completely. If the promise is given then the man is given another chance; otherwise, he is discharged at once."

Talk about personal liberty.

In April, 1915, the organized liquor traffic issued a blacklist of 49 American firms. The idea was that all possible pressure should be brought to bear upon these firms to change their attitude toward liquor. The liquor traffic was afraid of them. Who, then, were on the blacklist of the liquor traffic? I have it here:

The Pennsylvania Railroad Company.

United States Steel Corporation.
Pittsburgh Coal Company.
John Wanamakers.
Western Union Telegraph Co.
Hershey Chocolate Co.
Goodyear Rubber Co.
Red Auto Co.
S. S. Kresge Co.
J. N. Gamble, of Proctor and Gamble.

H. J. Heinz, of H. J. Heinz Company, and so on through a list of 49. They were liquor's blacklist.

Prohibition Is Good Business

I do not see how any man can go to Europe and watch what is afoot there in industry and then come back to this country and see what is afoot here without understanding that, as usually occurs when anything significant is happening, the prohibition question has important economic aspects. This killjoy spirit of bigoted Puritanism, we are told, wrote the prohibitory laws. That, however, is an obviously an inadequate presentation of the case. That fanaticism played a part in this reform no one will doubt; every reform has its lunatic fringe. But no one can state the case fairly without noting how large a part was played by forces not fanatical at all, but rather, for example, American business. Some day I propose a session in this publication on the thesis that moral reforms do not commonly succeed until the economic motive gets behind them. That certainly was true of prohibition.

In the second place, in the endeavor to make prohibition unattractive, caricature has been ingeniously employed. A hideous fanatic with a high hat, a black tie, and a rumped umbrella has become symbolic of prohibition.

as well, to settlement workers, who know anything about the matter, and the report is unanimous: no increase in drug addiction since prohibition. Upon the contrary, the evidence indicates that even before prohibition the heaviest drug addiction was associated with the heaviest liquor consumption. Less Intoxication in Colleges Here is another superstition: that drinking in the colleges has greatly increased. Anybody who knows history knows that after the heaviest liquor consumption.

Styled in the finest manner of today

IMBUED WITH the advanced style and alluring charm so typical of all Chrysler-built cars—possessing a new liveliness of performance and even greater dependability and economy than Dodge Brothers cars ever before have possessed—the new Dodge Brothers Six is unmatched by any other car at or near its price. Of the score or more of major betterments which this new car ushered in, none is more conspicuously important than its exclusive Mono-piece Body. A master stroke of Walter P. Chrysler's engineering genius, this remarkable new development combines beauty, strength and comfort to a degree never before attained in a car of such moderate price. And besides, it positively will not develop squeaks or rattles even after thousands of miles of hardest usage.

Here is a Partner to help you make more MONEY

THIS is a special advertisement to cotton farmers who have never used Chilean Nitrate of Soda to fertilize their crops.

You may be making good crops . . . but Chilean Nitrate will help you make better ones.

You may be making money on your farm, but Chilean Nitrate will help you make more.

For Example:

"The beauty of Chilean Nitrate of Soda—to my mind—is that it is the easiest source of nitrogen to apply and is the most agreeable to handle. Any negro tenant I have, even the negro children, can apply it without injury or trouble."

"Chilean Nitrate applied at the rate of 100 lbs. to the acre gives me a yield of forty bales of cotton where only twenty-five would be secured without it."

Yazoo City, Miss.

Chilean Nitrate is the best partner a farmer can have. It is the natural nitrogen fertilizer—not synthetic—the good old "Soda" that 800,000 farmers used last year.

Ask your county agent about Chilean Nitrate. He is familiar with many demonstrations conducted here last year. Each demonstration was official and impartial.

Order your supply now. If you don't know where and how to get it, simply write to the address below. Your inquiry will have prompt attention.

Valuable Book—Free

Our new 44-page book, "How to Use Chilean Nitrate of Soda," tells how to fertilize cotton and all other crops. It is free. Ask for Book No. 1 or tear out this ad and mail it with your name and address written on the margin.

FROM the day of its appearance, the public has acclaimed the new De Soto Six as a smart and fashionable car. And as its performance abilities became more widely known, through the experience of thousands of owners, faith in its mechanical soundness has been steadily and firmly established. On merit alone, and entirely aside from its heritage as a Chrysler Motors product, De Soto has been endowed with a public preference that sets it distinctly apart in the field of low priced sixes.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Dean, Moody Bible Institute of Chicago
(© 1929, Western Newspaper Union.)

Lesson for February 10

REPENTANCE AND FAITH

LESSON TEXT—Acts 2:32-39; Luke 15:11-24.

GOLDEN TEXT—Repent ye, and believe in the gospel.

PRIMARY TOPIC—A Boy Who Was Sorry.

JUNIOR TOPIC—A Boy Who Was Sorry.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Turning From Sin to God.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Way to Forgiveness.

I. Jesus Is Lord and Christ (Acts 2:32-39).

In order to induce repentance and faith, Jesus must be presented as both Lord and Christ. The presentation of Jesus as even the unusual son of Joseph and Mary will not convict the sinner. One reason for the vanishing sense of sin is the failure of ministers and Sunday school teachers to declare the Lordship and Messiahship of Jesus of Nazareth. Peter proved Jesus to be Lord and Christ by

1. The miracles which He wrought (Acts 2:22).

He performed before the very eyes of the people such mighty deeds as to demonstrate His Lordship.

2. His resurrection from the dead (Acts 2:24-32).

By his resurrection He was declared to be the Son of God with power (Rom. 1:4). His resurrection was attested to by many witnesses.

3. The outpouring of the Spirit (Acts 2:15-21).

Peter declared that the coming of the Spirit on Pentecost was the fulfillment of Joel's prophecy.

II. Repent and Believe the Gospel (Acts 2:37-39).

Peter's gospel message convicted the Jews of their sins. When they cried out, he commanded them to repent and be baptized. The evidence of their faith in Christ was manifested in their conviction of sin, and their penitence was shown in their confession of Christ in baptism.

III. The Forgiving God (Luke 15:11-24).

The center of things in this parable is not the prodigal son, nor his brother, but the "certain man who had two sons." This narrative is a most picturesque and dramatic portrayal of the history of man from his fall to his reconciliation with God.

1. The son's insubordination (v. 12).

He became tired of the restraints of home. His desire for freedom moved him willfully to choose to leave home—to throw off the constraint of his father's rule. Sin is the desire to indulge selfish purposes, free from the restraint of rightful authority.

At the request of the son, the father "divided unto them his living." Man is a free being. God has committed unto man his own destiny.

2. The son's departure (v. 13).

Having made the fateful decision, he immediately sought the fulfillment of his cherished purposes. The son could not now endure the presence of his father, so he gathered all together and hastened away. When the sinner casts off allegiance to God, he takes all that he has with him.

3. The son's degeneration (vv. 13, 14).

He had a good time while his money lasted, but the end came quickly. From plenty in his father's house to destitution in a far country was a short journey.

4. The son's degradation (vv. 15, 16).

His money exhausted, he was driven to hire himself to a citizen to feed swine. It is ever so. Those who will not serve God are made slaves to the devil to do his bidding (Rom. 6:16). In his shame and disgrace he could not get necessary food.

5. The son's restoration (vv. 17-24).

(1) He came to himself (v. 17). Reflection made him conscious that though he had wronged his father and ruined himself, he was still his father's son.

(2) His resolution (v. 18).

Memory picture of his home, where even the hired servants had a superabundance, moved him to make a decision to leave the far country and go home.

(3) His confession (vv. 18, 19).

He acknowledged that his sin was against heaven and his father, that he had forfeited his right to be called a son, and begged to be given a place as a hired servant.

(4) His action (v. 20).

Resolution does not avail unless accompanied with action. When the confession is genuine, action will follow.

(5) His reception by his father (vv. 20-24).

So anxious was he for him that he ran to meet him and fell upon his neck and kissed him.

in Side and Back

"I HAD BEEN miserable for a long time. My health was poor, and I suffered a lot from weakness. At times, my strength was so little that I could not stand on my feet. I would have to give up and go to bed. My sides and back hurt dreadfully."

"I grew discouraged, for I could do so little. I worried about myself, and almost gave up hope of ever being strong and well. I could scarcely lift a bucket of water. My housework went undone, for I was not strong enough to do it."

"After I had taken Cardui for a little while, I began to feel better. I grew stronger, soon found that I could do my work with less effort, and the pains in my back and sides left me. I think Cardui is a wonderful medicine. My health has been excellent since then."—Mrs. D. L. Beckner, W. Main St., Salem, Va.

PASTOR DESCRIBES
JERICHO, DEAD SEA

ing are the walls for during the war the British blew the top off, and used the place for a fort to guard the road to Jerusalem. Not far from here, nearer Jericho, is a tomb which Moslems claim to be that of Moses. They say Moses, not wanting to die on the eastern side of Jordan, came to the western side, and was buried here, but one cannot believe all that is told him there. On reaching the Plain of the Jordan a dozen miles wide at this point, we detoured to The Dead Sea.

The great brown Mountains of Judah rose to our right, and across the Jordan and the Dead Sea stood in majesty the purple mountains of Moab, highest toward the south. The part of the plain through which we made our way to the sea, was a desolate waste, the occasional patches of grass and bushes growing in the sand being the only visible support of the largest herd of camels we saw on our trip. We were told that there were over 2700 camels in the plain. The Sea was beautiful—that is the waters as we approached. It was almost noon and the sun was directly overhead, its brilliant light being thrown directly on the shimmering water, made the sea appear as a great plain of diamonds. The Sea is only forty-seven miles long and ranges from about five to nine miles in width. It lies 1292 feet below sea-level, or more than 800 feet lower than Death Valley, California. This makes it the deepest depression on

There are many reasons for the ease of steering the new Ford

THE new Ford is exceptionally easy to steer because of the well-proportioned weight of the car, the steel-spoke wheels, the co-ordinated design of springs and shock absorbers, the size and design of the steering wheel, and the simple mechanical construction of the steering gear.

The Ford steering gear is of the worm and sector type used on high-priced cars and is three-quarter irreversible.

In simple, non-technical language, this means that the car responds easily and quickly to the steering wheel, yet there is no danger of the wheel being jerked from the hands of the driver by ruts or bumps in the road. A light touch guides the car, yet you always have that necessary feel-of-the-road so essential to good driving.

Strength of materials and careful workmanship give unusual stability to the Ford steering gear and housing.

The steering worm, for instance, is splined to the steering worm shaft and is stronger, of course, than if a single key were used to hold the shaft and worm together. The steering worm sector is forged and machined in the same piece with its shaft.

The housing of the steering gear mechanism is made of three steel forgings, electrically welded together. This housing is then electrically welded to the steering column. Such a one-piece steel unit is naturally much sturdier than if several parts were used and bolted or riveted together.

Throughout, the new Ford steering mechanism is so simple in design and so carefully made that it requires practically no attention.

The only thing for you to do is to have the front steering spindles, spindle connecting rods, and drag link lubricated every 500 miles and the steering gear lubricated every 2000 miles.

For this work, you will find it best to consult the Ford dealer. He has been specially trained and equipped to help you get the greatest possible use from your car over the longest period of time at a minimum of trouble and expense.

the globe. Some authorities have said that the sea at its deepest is about 1200 feet. Once Sodom and Gomorrah stood, we believe, somewhere in this area, and something certainly took place here when these cities were destroyed. The Jordan River alone pours into this sea over six million tons of water every twenty-four hours, and in flood season considerably more. Yet, the sea level here never varies an inch, therefore, all this amount of water must be thrown off by evaporation, which Nature has enabled it to do with all ease. This body of water is five times as salty as the ocean. There were a few children bathing in the sea, and here parents need never fear their drowning, for they couldn't do it unless they deliberately held their heads under, for you cannot sink in this water. One of the bathers would throw his feet up in the air and lie motionless on his back but never sink. But the sea is not good for bathing, for afterward another bath must be taken to wash off the salt. The water has a very bitter taste. (We tasted it.)

The River Jordan

Leaving the Dead Sea we traveled north through a desolation even more chaotic and dreary than that through which we had come. It looked as if the Jordan at its flood had contributed a thousand sandbars to the scene and had scattered them in utmost confusion through this part of the plain. But finally we came to the Jordan itself, unique among the rivers of the world and really the one river of Palestine. Rising in the Hermon, 137 miles north it empties into the Dead Sea, from its source descending 300 feet.

Shepherd and Flock on Plains of Jericho

I will not give you scriptural references here, for they are too numerous. We spent about an hour at the Fords of the Jordan, the place where John baptised the multitudes, and Christ. Here we believe the Israelites crossed which crossing is so vividly pictured in Joshua, third chapter. We held a short service, the writer, himself, reading this chapter as he sat underneath a tree on the bank of Jordan listening to rippling waters. At its normal stage the Jordan is not wide nor is it pretty, for the waters are muddy.

The Jerichos

There are three Jerichos, Ancient, Herod's and Modern. Ancient Jericho is the one whose walls fell when the Israelites marched about them. Authorities believe that the walls, or rather the ruins of the walls that stand today (recently uncovered) are those that stood in the days of Joshua. Also in Elijah's day the city was the location of a Seminary (School of the prophets). Just outside the walls is the Fountain of Elisha. In the face of the cliffs to the west is a Greek Monastery for Apostate Priests. Several hundred feet almost in a perpendicular cliff can be seen doors or rather openings cut into the solid rock, a narrow pathway leading along the side of the cliff, hardly wide enough for two people to pass. This place too, is the traditional "Mount of Temptation".

Three miles across the plain bring you into the ruins of the Jericho of Herod. Here he constructed a hippodrome, an amphitheater, and a palace with extensive gardens and aqueducts, all these remains having been brought to light in recent years.

Then, there is Modern Jericho not far from the other two. It has a population of about one thousand inhabitants. Here is found a very good hotel, and good meals can be obtained, if you can eat with hundreds of flies swarming about you while you eat.

The presence of two Jerichos in the time of our Lord explains an apparent discrepancy in the accounts of healing the blind men, for according to the New Testament, Jesus healed the blind man in Bethsaida, and according to the Gospels of Matthew and Mark, he healed the blind man in Jericho.

Teachers' Council Meets.
The teachers' council of the Methodist Sunday School met Tuesday evening in the basement of the church. After a delightful two-course supper was served, Miss Lizzie Horn, superintendent of the Sunday School, had charge of the program.

Miss Ruth Bale, of the expression department of Grenada College, favored the gathering with a reading, "The Story of the Happy Prince".

Dr. J. R. Countess then gave a splendid talk on, "The Privileges of Being a Teacher in the Sunday School".

Short talks were made by Rev. E. H. Cunningham, presiding elder, and Rev. J. H. Holder, pastor, on the work of the Sunday School. Reports were made from each department for the month of January.

There were about thirty teachers and officers present, and much inspiration was received by them for their respective duties.

Club Discusses Lincoln.

The Twentieth Century Club held its regular bi-monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. Jack Sanderson Tuesday afternoon.

Mrs. John Keeton, president, had charge of the program, which had for its theme the early life and environment of Lincoln whose birthday is celebrated Feb. 12. Mrs. Keeton read Lincoln's Gettysburg address. Mrs. Frank Matthews gave a very interesting paper, the subject being "If Lincoln Should Come to Washington Today".

Mrs. W. B. Waterman gave a splendid talk on "Enthusiasm", bringing in the public library movement, of which she is chairman. The next meeting of the club will be held at the home of Mrs. Waterman, Tuesday, Feb. 19, when an interesting program will be given.

Compliments Mrs. Yeager.

Mrs. Donald Sharp entertained most delightfully last Thursday morning, honoring Mrs. Jim Yeager, of Drew, who was the house guest of her sister, Mrs. S. Y. Anderson.

Mrs. Raphael Semmes held high score after several interesting games and received a lovely picture as prize, and Mrs. Yeager was presented an attractive flower as honor guest prize.

Mrs. Sharp served a most tempting salad course to the following guests: Mrs. Yeager, Mesdames Overton Pearson, E. L. Bass, Raphael Semmes, Bob Townes, Roland Jones, Ernest Penn and Homer Williams.

41 QUAIL FREED IN COUNTY

There have been bought and turned loose in Grenada county 410 quail. One hundred were bought by the county with game fund money.

One hundred were bought by Mr. John Borden, 200 by Mr. A. R. Barker and 10 by Mr. F. R. Lickfold, Jr.

These birds have been turned loose all over the county and I wish to ask all of the people to make an honest effort to protect them.

Keep up your dogs and see that others do the same during the nesting season. The stray dog is one of the worst and most dangerous animals that roam the country. Your children, yourself and everybody else are at the mercy of these stray dogs. Every paper contains accounts of some person being bitten by these worthless roaming dogs. Think of your children and your friend's family and help us to keep these dogs up and muzzled during the summer months.

I wish that every one interested in game and fish preservation would consider himself a warden for their protection and would think of his children's welfare. Post your lands only against the game hog and game law violator, make friends with the boys and men who like to hunt and fish, and obey our game laws.

I am glad to state that the game hog has just about disappeared in our county and I find everybody ready and willing to help us in restocking and protecting our game and fish. I wish to thank one and all for their wonderful help and support in this work and ask that all continue to help us.

Respectfully,
R. E. HALL,
County Game Warden

MAJESTIC 1929 ORDERS

AMOUNT TO $120,000,000.00

An item of interest to all who are interested in radio is the announcement by the manufacturer of MAJESTIC radio receiving sets that non-cancelable orders for 1929 amount to more than one-third of total sales of all manufacturers during 1928.

Total sales of all radio manufacturers of sets only during 1928 amounted to $306,000,000.00.

The orders already placed for MAJESTIC radio sets for 1929 amount to $120,000,000.00. This is surely proof of the quality, performance, popular price and public acceptance of this great radio line.

Sharp Furniture Co. of this city are the only Majestic radio dealers in Grenada County.

Civic League to Meet.

The Civic League will meet in the ladies' rest room, Feb. 12, at 3:30 p. m. Members and all who are interested in civic improvement (this should include every woman in Grenada) are urged to be present. We are beginning a new year, and what we accomplish will depend on the help and co-operation given us by the citizens of our community. Let's make this a banner year in beautifying our city. Mrs. C. C. Penn, chairman.

Mr. and Mrs. G. M. Lawrence are happy over the arrival into their home on Wednesday, Feb. 6, of their second child and second son. The young man tipped the scales at a fraction over eight pounds when he reached here and he and his mother are both doing exceptionally well. "Malcolm Pinkerton" is the name that has been given him.

I am, very gratefully yours,

MRS. JESSIE S. THOMASON

Grenada, Miss., Feb. 7, 1929.

MRS. THOMASON EXPRESSES APPRECIATION FOR VOTE

To the Voters of Grenada County:

I wish to say that I appreciate far more than I can state your action in electing me to fill out the unexpired term of my departed husband as chancery clerk. I feel that you did this not so much on my account but as a tribute to my husband's memory and because, too, that you felt that he or his family should receive whatever emoluments the office carries for the full four year term to which he was chosen in 1927. Your action gives me the distinction, I believe, of being the first woman ever elected to a Grenada County office. I am grateful that I was elected without opposition. Thanking one and all,

I am, very gratefully yours,

MRS. JESSIE S. THOMASON

Grenada, Miss., Feb. 7, 1929.

PRAISES MR. KEETON

Mr. Editor,

Will you please allow me a space in your column.

I want to commend Mr. John T. Keeton.

I lived on his place four years,

He from time to time provided for me and did more than I deserved.

He is an honorable merchant and worthy of any honor that you may bestow upon him.

SICKLY, PEEVISH CHILDREN

Children suffering from intestinal worms are cross, restless and unhealthy. There are other symptoms, however. If the child is pale, has dark rings under the eyes, bad breath and takes no interest in play, it is almost a certainty that worms are eating away its vitality. The surest remedy for worms is White's Cream Vermifuge. It is positive destruction to the worms but harmless to the child. Price 35c. Sold by

CARD OF THANKS

I am joined by my wife and other loved ones in saying to those who were so thoughtful and solicitous during my stay in the hospital that all of us are deeply appreciative of what you said and did for me during my illness. The doctors and nurses seemed to be especially thoughtful and considerate of my welfare and they, too, have our everlasting gratitude.

Only those who have experienced serious illness in their family can really appreciate just how we feel. The attentions of all of you helped greatly to keep me cheered up during my stay in the hospital and no doubt hastened my recovery.

25 YEARS AGO
IN GRENADA

From the Files of
THE GRENADA SENTINEL

of former editions

Mr. Jessie D. Ruusum and Miss

Idella Tribble were married at the residence of the bride's mother on last Wednesday night, Rev. W. F.

Roberts officiating. The bride is an attractive young lady possessing many friends in Grenada who wish her well. The groom is a young man represented to us as possessing many excellent traits of character. He is a native of Georgia, and we understand they will make that state their home.

Mr. G. W. Bloodworth, one of Grenada's esteemed citizens, and Miss Ollie Henry, of this city, and a most worthy and charming lady, were united in marriage last Tuesday in Richmond, Va. They will return in a few days to Grenada

where they will permanently reside. The host of friends of the bride in our city extend congratulations to her in her new relation, and wish her the fruits of a happy journey over the matrimonial sea.

Mr. D. G. McKinley, representing the New Orleans Carpet &

Matting Co., Ltd., was registered at Hotel South Thursday. Mr.

McKinley was, for a long time,

with the large firm of Johnson-

Taylor Co., of Jackson, and is well known in this section of the state.

Messrs. Roby, Webb, Sam

Street and John Burney, of Winona, visited in Grenada Sunday evening.

Mr. Sylvan Newburger, a prominent cotton factor, of New Orleans, and one of Oakland's leading merchants was in Grenada Thursday.

Rev. A. V. Rowe will preach at the First Baptist church tomorrow at 11 o'clock. All are invited.

Mr. Edwin Newburger, a merchant prince of Coffeeville and a popular citizen, was shaking hands with his friends here Thursday.

The genial, big-hearted Mr. Vol.

Pearson, of Memphis, is spending the week with his son, Mr. I. O.

Pearson. He has many warm friends in this section.

Our friend, Mr. H. G. Leonard, proprietor of the Hotel South, is thinking "seriously" of going to Japan, to help "lick" the Russians.

Should he do so, his excellent wife will continue to run the business.

Our friend, Mr. W. R. Baker has purchased three Angora registered goats from Lawrence, Kansas. He bought them for the purpose mainly to eat the weeds and sprouts off of his pasture. The meat is fine to eat, and the fleece is Mohair. If they thrive he expects to buy others.

Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Bolton's

mother and sister, of Memphis, are visiting here.

Mr. and Mrs. Taylor, of Mattoon, Ill., are visiting the family of Mr. L. H. Ellison.

Mr. W. H. Moss has finished a handsome two story residence for

Mr. S. T. Tatum, on Main Street, which has been greatly admired

by those who have seen and examined it. It is built on the Colonial order and has eight rooms, with bath room and closets, also reception and individual hall together with a large amount of gallery room and balcony. The residence is well built and reflects credit on

Mr. Moss, who is one of our leading and most reliable builders and contractors, as well as a substitute citizen. Mr. Moss is ready to build more houses.

TRUSTEE'S NOTICE OF SALE
OF LAND

STATE OF MISSISSIPPI
GRENADA COUNTY

By virtue of the power conferred on me by the terms of a deed of trust executed on the 19th day of October, 1927 by Mathis Tucker and C. C. Tucker and of record in the Chancery Clerk's office at Grenada, Miss., on page 579 of Book 60 of land mortgage records of Grenada County, I will, within legal hours, on Monday, the 4th of March, 1928, in front of the east door of the Courthouse in the city of Grenada, Mississippi, sell at public auction for cash the following described land in the county of Grenada, State of Mississippi, to-wit:

The SW 1/4 of the SE 1/4 of Section 27; also the SW 1/4 of the SW of Section 27; all in Township 22,

Range 4 East, being all the land owned by the said grantors in Grenada County, Mississippi.

This land is to be sold to satisfy the terms of the said deed of trust, default having been made in the payment of the debt secured by the said deed of trust, and he having been requested to foreclose

the said deed of trust by the party

thereunto lawfully authorized.

Witness my signature February

1st, 1928.

Trustee.

RAISED IN A BARN

"What the door," yelled the rough-neck on the train. "Where were you raised—in a barn?" The timid man looked sad, and tears came to his eyes. The rough-neck replied, "Come, come, don't cry,

"don't take it to heart so when I asked if you were raised in a barn." The poor fellow went to show to the Committee by whom
